"The Life of Riley"

Muir-Williamson

The marriage of James Sharp Muir and Miss Theolina Williamson, both of Champion, took place at Lethbridge on Saturday, August 25th. Rev. Mr. Cripps performing the ceremony. The contracting parties are widely and popularly known in the district and are receiving the congratulations of their many friends.

"WINGS"

"WINGS" the greatest achievement of modern times. It's Author utilized the aeroplane, this modern invention, to build up his dramatic situations, and, indeed, he has succeeded. The spectator is thrilled throughout the entire picture. It is difficult for one to describe the thrills one feels in the sight of one plane attacking another plane, of one group of planes attacking another group, and later seeing more planes, downed, and falling to the earth in flames. They are magnificent sights—they are, in fact, so magnificent, so impressive, so thrilling, that it is doubtful if one could feel more excited even if one were to watch actual airplane battles.

This Roadshow Picture carries its own Musical Director and score together with marvelous realistic sound effects. These effects are positively astounding, when one hears and sees the aeroplanes and machine-guns up in the air doing battle.

Owing to a miss print the matinee time is changed from 2:30 to 4:15. This will be your only chance to see this master production this season. And it plays one day only in Champion Wednesday, September 5.

Local and General

The roads are again in fair condition after the recent rains, and while somewhat rough are easily negotiable.

All the stores in town evidence the fact that harvest is in progress and stocks of goods have rarely been so complete. Business has been fair when the delay due to bad weather is considered.

M. A. McNaughton arrived in Champion on Friday last, according to schedule, and has since been renewing acquaintances here. His annual visit is quite an event to all the old timers.

The new loading platform is under construction and promises to be a big improvement on the old one. Had it been constructed before the old one was torn down it would have saved considerable trouble in unloading harvest machinery.

G. M. Campbell was a business visitor to Calgary the first of the week. He states the Champion Theatre has unusually good programs in sight for the next few months, starting off with "Wings" on Sept. 5th.

Cutting operations were resumed on Monday by some while others were forced to wait until Tuesday. At time of writing the weather appears to be settled, but in this country of surprises it is difficult to venture weather prophecies with any hope of being right.

L. W. Boden has just completed a bungalow for W. E. Watkins at a cost of some $3,000, which will add to the handsome residences on the farms in this vicinity. Mr. Boden is now engaged on the farm of Henry Todd, near Kirkcaldy, where a similar residence is being erected.

The reduction of the Pool payment from one dollar to eighty-five cents per bushel was not unexpected as the falling market necessitated a change of this kind. It is to be hoped circumstances will permit of the amount of the first payment being restored to the original figure in the near future.

While an amazing amount of farm machinery has already left for the country there is still enough on hand to indicate to some extent the enormous purchases for this harvest. The change to combines is naturally the largest item as they usually include the purchase of tractors, but the movement of other kinds of machinery and implements has been phenomenal.

NOTES AND COMMENT.

Lower tariffs lead to industrial progress. Every forward movement in Canadian industry has been preceded by tariff reductions. Relative stagnation has followed tariff increases. Facts are so important to right conclusions in economics and politics as in engineering. The Consumers' League believes that further reductions in the tariff would greatly stimulate Canadian industry. It bases its conclusions on the facts. Manufacturers holding different views have the opportunity of testing their theories against the facts by making applications for tariff increases before the Tariff Board. That is one of the great advantages of the Tariff Board—the facts brought out often enable manufacturers to see where they are standing in their own light—Consumers' League Bulletin.

Containing a full summary of the open seasons for game in the various provinces of Canada for 1928, the September issue of Red and Gun and Canadian Silver Fox News heralds the fast approaching hunting season. Some fine stories of deer and goose shooting give a pleasant foretaste of the annual pleasures of the fall trip.

The extent to which tree planting has been carried on in this district during the past few years can be fully appreciated by a drive in any direction. When moisture conditions are satisfactory this country produces as satisfactory growth in trees as in other field and garden products and the growth of shelter belts and ornamental trees has been simply prodigious. There is nothing to take the place of trees in making farm premises take on a permanent appearance of a home.

SECRET AGREEMENT ON NAVIES CLAIMED TO HAVE BEEN SIGNED BY GREAT BRITAIN AND FRANCE—NAVIES TO BE POOLED TO SAFEGUARD LEAGUE OF NATIONS AND ARBITRATION—JOINT ACTION TO PREVENT AGGRESSIVE ACTION AGAINST PEACE OF WORLD

Toronto, Aug. 25.—The Mail and Empire today publishes the following special cable from London:

"What purpose to be a secret document of enormous importance to the peace of the world, a letter from Foreign Secretary Sir Austen Chamberlain to Foreign Minister Briand in effect pooling British and French navies in all the oceans, has either leaked from one of the ministers concerned or an extremely clever and audacious forger has been perpetrated.

"Information has been obtained by the correspondent that a number of United States newspapers have intended to publish the text of this letter on the eve or the morning of the signing of the multi-lateral anti-war treaty in Paris, Monday. The full text of the alleged understanding between the foreign ministers has been in the possession of the correspondent. In view of the fact that the publication elsewhere was in prospect, the gist of the letter is given below.

"Before the dispatch was written the foreign office was informed of the correspondent's intention. No comment was obtainable for publication tonight.

"The alleged Chamberlain letter is dated July 23. It begins by mentioning today that an understanding on naval construction has been reached and chronicles a further agreement between Mr. Briand and himself that Britain and French naval experts should consult more frequently about naval co-operation between the two countries.

"The provision is added that such discussions of expert do not bind either government to assist the other in war or in any way restrict the future actions of Great Britain or France.

"The dispositions of the British and French fleets, the letter says, are hereafter to be made known by each admiralty to the other.

"Sir Austen's alleged letter then deals with general principles to govern a naval entente which has for its object maintenance of the peace of the world as covenanted when the League of Nations was created.

Co-operation On Oceans

"A full program of co-operation in the Atlantic and Pacific oceans is to be worked out between the two navies and the letter continues that protection of the sea routes and defenses of the coast in the Pacific and from China to the Red Sea will be the common interest of both fleets and notes that it has been agreed that the Atlantic will fall into the same category. Naval experts therefore are to consult regarding co-ordination and co-operation in both cases, not, however, necessarily involving joint action.

"In the Mediterranean, the letter continues, the interests of peace demand that the western half of this area be in charge of the French fleet and the eastern half of the British, with the exception that the special interest of Great Britain at Gibraltar in the west and the French in Syria in the east, are recognized.

"Chamberlain and Briand, the letter states, have agreed to ask naval experts to make arrangements accordingly, but the object of this is not to bind either government to render naval aid to the other in case of danger from another power, but solely to facilitate the cause of peace.

"The two foreign ministers have agreed, the letter says, that naval consultations are not enough, and that military air experts of the two governments must consult. The signing in the near future of an agreement is said to make necessary closer and more frequent consultations between England and France. It is even asserted that threatens world peace. Chamberlain and Briand have agreed, the document adds, to an immediate consultation between the two governments as to whether joint action should be taken to prevent an aggressive action from any power that either government deems may disturb the peace.

Preserve the League

"The chief object of the agreement, the letter says, in considering these paragraphs, is to preserve the League of Nations and the principles of arbitration and under the circumstances the agreements reached are declared to be the only way to avoid another war.

"The Manchester Guardian today as aptly as if it had some knowledge or inkling of an Anglo-French entente.

"The return to secrecy."

"In this leading article the Guardian traces the secret communications with France made before the war and says:

"We are drifting back steadily to the old dangers and the old vices. Could anything be more in the old spirit than the foreign secretary's behavior to the house of commons about the naval compromise with France?"

"He gave the commons just three sentences about it. A few days later the French press was explaining that Chamberlain had been much too modest about his achievement, that it was not as he had represented it, merely a conclusion of a difficult question, but was a diplomatic event of first importance, that it was of a much wider agreement, covering land disarmament as well as naval disarmament and that it involved the entire world, including England and France. These disclosures caused excitement and fear in several countries."

BOARD OFFICIALS ANNOUNCE CUT IN INITIAL WHEAT POOL PAYMENT—VERIFY EIGHTY FIVE CENT PAYMENT.

Winnipeg, Aug. 27.—The central board of the Canadian wheat pool, in an official statement issued today by E. R. Ramsay, secretary and manager, announced that the initial payment for the 1928-29 crop will be 85 cents a bushel basis No. 1 northern at Fort William.

"The wheat pool board in taking this step in following the same conclusion, is not enough, and that military air experts of the two governments must consult. The signing in the near future of an agreement is said to make necessary closer and more frequent consultations between England and France. It is even asserted that threatens world peace. Chamberlain and Briand have agreed, the document adds, to an immediate consultation between the two governments as to whether joint action should be taken to prevent an aggressive action from any power that either government deems may disturb the peace.

"The initial payment made by the Alberta pool when it began operations in 1923 was 75 cents a bushel. The initial payment for the four subsequent years was $1 a bushel. The initial payment has always been based upon market conditions at the opening of the crop year and bears no relation to the price per bushel ultimately received by the pool members.

"We are starting the new crop year practically sold out. The rumors that have been circulated during the past year in regard to the large stocks of wheat held by the pool are therefore entirely refuted."

LOCAL AND GENERAL

Mrs. Millford Sisson was a visitor to Calgary this week.

Mrs. A. F. McKibbin, of Carbon, is on a visit to her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Watkins.

Mrs. F. C. Alcock is attending the Okotoks W. I. constituency conference, which is being held in Calgary.

Owing to the unfavorable weather last Sunday confirmation services in the Lutheran church were postponed until Sunday, Sept. 9th.

Mrs. H. Beubler, of Decarborn, Mich., visited with Mrs. W. E. Watkins during the week, motoring over from Claresholm where she is visiting her parents.

Renunciation of war by the leading nations of the world has been signed at Paris. Somehow it is difficult to accept this as a definite abandonment of war except under satisfactory conditions, but if the pledge can be kept it will be one of the world's greatest achievements.

The delay in harvesting operations caused by the wet weather has added to the difficulty in placing the men who arrived here on the farms and there has been a considerable number unable to find work. With improved weather conditions, however, the situation will be rapidly remedied.

Louis Hummel and Miss Elizabeth Hummel, of Trout Creek, Ont., arrived in town on Saturday night and are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. B. Hummel. They are brother and sister to Barney who had not seen them for ten years. Louis Hummel will be remembered by many as having lived here at one time.

Jas. Brown returned this week from an extended visit to Wenatchee, Wash., where his daughters reside. He described the orchards in glowing terms and tells of fruit in such quantities as heavily laden trees that props are necessary to hold the limbs up.

According to Bishop Lloyd and the Vancouver Sun this country is going to the denunciation bow wows, in the first instance through immigration from central Europe, and in the second instance because the Canadian tariff has not been built up step by step with that of the United States. Otherwise everything seems to be all right.

Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Crawford and family left for Calgary on Monday where Mrs. Crawford and the Misses Mehta and Forbes McGillivray will reside in future, the latter attending school and college. It is understood Mrs. Crawford will return here to remain until the completion of the fall's work.

Mrs. Barker has rented her residence to Mr. Friesen of the U. G. G. elevator and intends leaving for Michigan shortly, where two sisters reside, to remain for at least a year. Mrs. Barker is one of the old-time residents here and her departure will be regarded with general regret. Numerous friends will wish her happiness in her new home.

Harry Newsome, living 14 miles east, delivered the first load of spring wheat to Champion of this year's crop. It was regarded as a splendid sample of No. 2 northern at the National elevator, where it was delivered.

K. R. McLean R. O. Sight Specialist, 212 Herald Bldg., Calgary, will make his monthly professional visit to Champion, at the Drug Store, Friday, August 31st.

To speak the truth meant his freedom. But he preferred to carry his secret with him to the gallows—rather than betray the honor of the mother he never knew. See "The Nose."

BRITAIN-CANADA MAIL SERVICE BY AIR IS FORECAST

Montreal, Aug. 28.—A rapid mail service by airship between Great Britain and Canada was forecast today by W. G. Williams, parliamentary secretary of the British board of trade. There were two great airships now under construction in Great Britain, one by the government, the other by Commander Burrey, and the latter was likely to have its trial toward the end of the year.

"I should be surprised," Mr. Williams said, "if we do not see the development of rapid mail communications between England and Canada through airships."

Mr. Williams was speaking at the first conference of the delegates of the empire parliamentary association now visiting Canada.

The conference was with a number of the Montreal board of trade, the subject being empire transportation.

ASK FEDERAL AID FOR HIGHWAYS IN THE WEST

Edmonton.—Launching of a strong campaign for federal aid for highways was expressed at a meeting of the northern directors of the Alberta Motor Association, held here, when A. B. Mackay, provincial president, and Fred R. Drayson, head of the Calgary branch, were also present. This will be following up the request made at the annual convention held last spring when a resolution asking the federal authorities to grant $50,000,000, which would be spread over a term of five years, was passed. The firm specified would be used for the Dominion and greatly aiding to Canada's tourist attractions in that way. The federal grant of $20,000,000 made in 1919, and now exhausted, was distributed on a basis of population to the various provinces. It is felt that this basis works out unfairly on the far-flung provinces, especially, and that it should be apportioned on a mileage basis instead.

President A. B. Mackay is strongly in favor of a vigorous campaign to secure federal aid and feels that there should be no delay in showing the Dominion authorities that there is a feeling throughout the country in favor of such assistance for highway programmes.

Receives Appointment

Gen. Given Fulfills Role in Keping With His Station in Life

Quebec.—Although he was making expenses and was learning French through contact with the Canadian people at the hotel where he was engaged in washing dishes, Brig-Gen. Charles Henry Gough, who had just accepted an appointment more in keeping with his former condition. Thanks to the publicity which he received when an officer of I.M.A. Australia, met him here and revealed to a local paper that the former soldier was doing menial work. General Gough has received an offer of appointment with a company operating a steamship service on the St. Lawrence river in the Gulf.

May Remodel Liquor Act

British Columbia May Follow Lead of Quebec System

Victoria, B.C.—"We are just stock taking now," Hon. R. P. Pooley, attorney-general in the new Conservative cabinet, stated. "We can't say much about things until we have finished that."

The attorney-general intimates, however, that there would be lots of action soon and agreed that the liquor act was one that he would give early attention. Conservatives in touch with party leaders have suggested that the British Columbia act may be remodelled somewhat after the lines of the Quebec Act.

Would Adopt Drastic Measure

British Warship Not Welcome

Soviet Government Will Not Permit Warship To Transfer Bodies Of Submarine Crew

Moscow, U.S.S.R.—The Soviet news agency Tass says that in response to a British request through the Norwegian mission to Moscow, that Great Britain be allowed to send a warship to transfer the bodies of the crew of the recently raised submarine L-35 from Leningrad to England, the Soviet Government has replied that it cannot consent to a British warship entering Soviet territorial waters.

The Soviet Government would not object to a warship of a friendly nation such as Norway or a British merchantman coming.

The L-35 was sunk in 1919 while assisting the white Russians against the Bolshevik Government but recently was raised by the Soviet authorities who found a number of skeletons of British seamen.

University Women Meet

Membership Of Federation Now Stands At Nearly Two Thousand

Vancouver.—Women's place today, her participation in world affairs, and her limitations because she is a woman, were some of the topics discussed at the fourth triennial conference of the Canadian Federation of University Women by Mrs. Bertha Landes, former mayor of Seattle.

Mrs. Landes said that the woman was deliberately taken back upon marriage, upon a home and children is making the greatest mistake of her life, but forcing these things upon women only breeds unhappiness for all.

The membership report of the federation was read by Miss Marjorie Greig of Ottawa. The various efforts to increase the membership, which now stands at 1,802, within thirty-seven affiliations, were outlined.

A. Jackson, commissioner of parks for the Dominion Government, are successful. This information was given out by Mr. Harkin himself.

Mr. Harkin said that the present experiment will include the building of bituminous surfaced roads for five miles east and five miles west of Banff, making ten miles in all.

Use Niagara Falls As Screen

GOVERNOR SMITH STATES POLICY IN VIGOROUS SPEECH

Albany, N.Y.—With all the force at his command Alfred Smith, governor of the state of New York, told an expectant nation what he would do if elected president. In aggressive fashion, he accepted the Democratic nomination with a speech which not only set forth his stand on prohibition, agriculture, foreign relations and other public questions, but accused the Republican administration of a failure to keep faith with the people.

As millions listened-in by radio, the new leader of the Democratic movement modification of both the Volstead law and eighteenth amendment, reiterated that he would give the problem of controlling crop surpluses his immediate attention if elected, assured the administration's Niagara-guan and Mexican policy, and pledged himself to a "real" endeavor to out-law war.

He also called for a reorganization of Federal Government activities on a business basis; declared that neither he nor the Democratic party contemplated "added or drastic" changes in tariff schedules; reaffirmed his stand for public ownership and control of waterpower; presented a square deal for war veterans; stressed the need for inland waterway development, reforestation and conservation of natural resources, and advocated "progressive legislation for the protection and care of working men and women."

While standing "squarely" on the Democratic platform declaration for restrictive immigration, the nominee asserted that he was "heartily in favor of removing from the immigration law the harsh provision which separates families," and was "opposed to the principle of restriction based upon the figures of immigrant population contained in a census 28 years old."

Labour Premier's Canadian Tour

FIGHT ILLEGAL LIQUOR EXPORT

Prosecution Will Be Continued

Gordon N. Shaver, K.C., has been appointed by the attorney-general of Ontario to act as special prosecutor in the proceedings against liquor export companies at Windsor as a result of seizure of $5,000,000 of liquor along the Canada-United States border by the Ontario liquor control board in its fight against illegal export.

This is the first time in the history of the city that this condition has existed, and it is said to be due entirely to the improved business conditions experienced here.

Earlier in the year there was one occasion when the city was able to wipe its current bank loans, but there was no surplus.

Prosperous Saskatoon

Advice To Dairymen

Hon. C. M. Hamilton Says Industry Here Is Not Behind Other Countries

Ottawa, Ont.—Bringing back some friendly advice for Canadian dairymen, Hon. C. M. Hamilton, minister of agriculture in Saskatchewan, reached Ottawa. He is returning from the world's dairy conference in London, where 1,800 delegates represented nearly every country in the world. "Canadian dairymen," Mr. Hamilton observed, "does not appear to be behind other countries in the line of production and manufacturing. The main difficulty seems to be in the uniform high standard of the herds. In that, we are somewhat lacking but it is not surprising since in a number of the provinces, dairymen is largely a side line."

To establish ourselves in the British market, as producers of butter or cheese, bacon or any other agricultural product, we must not only place our goods on the market the highest quality but also a steady volume. Merchants whose customers have developed a taste for a certain thing, want to be able to supply it continuously and that is where we sometimes fall down."

Mr. Hamilton tells of the Hon. W. R. Mather's travels. He has motored all over the British Isles and is going to France, Belgium, Germany, Italy and finally up to the Scandinavian countries to see if they have anything on us in the line of agriculture.

Joins Scottish Club

Lord Lovat Becomes Honorary Member Of Club In Toronto

Toronto.—A distinguished Scot was added to the honorary membership of the Scottish Club of Canada, when the club honored Lord Lovat, parliamentarian and secretary for Dominion Affairs, who is in Toronto for the purpose of conferring with the Ontario government on immigration matters. ## Less Drunkenness In England

Convictions Show The Lowest Total For Nine Years

London, Eng.—According to the official statistics of convictions for drunkenness in England published today, the most sober city in the Kingdom is the most historic seaport Plymouth and the city with the most proportionate convictions is the pretty but rather sleepy cathedral town of Norwich, in Norfolk.

The statistics throughout the country totaled 45,000 during the year, a decrease of 1,800 and the lowest total in nine years.

MIGRATION PLAN IS ESSENTIALLY BRITISH PROBLEM

Toronto, Ont.—While the province of Ontario is willing to co-operate in every possible way in bringing the immigration scheme suggested by Lord Lovat to fruition, Premier Ferguson expressed the opinion that the matter was essentially a British rather than an Ontario problem.

Discussing the conference held Lord Lovat in his office here, the premier stated that he looked forward with great optimism to the final result although he admitted that the paramount question of finance had not been definitely settled.

The premier pointed out that the Ontario government was already lending money to Ontario farmers and financing settlers in Northern Ontario.

Under the scheme the British government is working directly with the Dominion Government and financial details are being worked out to reveal these two governments.

"Would the British Government be willing to finance the scheme if Ottawa decided not to enter into an agreement," the premier was asked. "That is what we were discussing yesterday," replied the premier. "It will also be a subject of further conference when I meet Lord Lovat again. The British Government is willing to assist in financing the matter and I gather from Lord Lovat that the discussions at Ottawa have been satisfactory."

The premier expressed the opinion that if the farmers of Ontario paid a yearly wage rather than seasonal, no difficulty would be encountered in keeping the mix on the farms.

PRINCE GEORGE GREETS YOUNG AMBASSADORS

Vancouver.—His Royal Highness Prince George was greeted here just before he boarded his ship, H.M.S. Durban, by four members of the Empire ambassador party now touring Canada and by the organizer of the tour, Mr. J. H. Macdonald.

The prince expressed great interest in the tour of the young ambassadors and said that both he and his brother the Prince of Wales were conversant with it, the latter having been identified with the scheme. His Royal Highness was particularly interested to learn it was planned to extend the tour to other parts of the Empire in the future.

The prince chatted with each member of the party. He was told that many of the delegation were planning to visit the provinces and write newspaper articles concerning the tour up to their return.

Prince George, in bidding the group farewell, expressed the belief that their visit would do a great deal of good for Canada and the Empire generally.

Receives Message From Missing Aviators

Amateur Radio Operator In Communication With Greater Rockford Crew

Toledo, Ohio.—A long message purported to be from the crew of the Greater Rockford, was received by Joseph E. Williams, an amateur radio operator, who had been in direct communication with the crew for ten minutes.

The crew said, according to Williams: "We are stranded on a small island 100 miles north of Newfoundland. We are Rockford's crew. We need assistance badly. Please do all in your power to get help to us as soon as possible."

Williams then said he conversed with a member of the crew and in reply to a further question, said: "Just say we are safe and well."

Then, Williams stated, the message was garbled and all he was able to state was: "Because we haven't had any deer meat since yesterday."

The communication ended. Williams stated that "have been trying to get in touch with some station all night. Please hurry."

Williams declared the message was received on a wavelength of 42.8 metres at his station 8AME. He was turning direct wire to the coast station of the Greater Rockford's radio station.

He stated that he first received faint signals at 11:45 and at 11:45 he could hear the sender distinctly, although the interference was bad.

Hints At Separate Agreement

Toronto.—Premier Ferguson says that Dr. J. H. Macdonald, who has been in Ontario for some time, is in the process of negotiating a separate agreement with Lord Lovat. He said, however, that in the event of the Federal Government not entering into satisfactory arrangement with Lord Lovat, Ontario might make her own pact with the British Government.

Where Co-operation Is Needed

The movement of ten thousand unemployed British miners to Canada to work as harvest hands in the grain fields of the West is no significant, nor may have such far-reaching results, that it warrants additional consideration to that already given in a previous article in this column.

Suppose the situation was reversed and there was a surplus of ten of thousands of farmers' sons and farm hands in Western Canada who could not find employment, while, on the other hand, there was a shortage of miners in the coal-mining districts of the British Isles, and the experiment was tried of transporting an army of men from the grain fields of the West to the mines of Britain.

Under such circumstances the sympathy of the people of Canada would go out to their sons as they journeyed to an unfamiliar country to engage in work of which they had no knowledge or training, and to live under conditions entirely new to them. There would be hope in the hearts of the relatives and friends of those men that the British people and the mine bosses would be considerate in their treatment, lenient in their judgments, sympathetic and understanding the strangers to adjust themselves to their own environment and make good.

Fortunately for Canada its sons do not have to go abroad in order to find work and opportunity, because nowhere in the world today is work more plentiful, nowhere the greater opportunities present themselves than in Canada. This very fact should, however, but provide a greater incentive to our people to extend a heartening welcome and a helping hand to these British miners.

Judging by numerous statements made by these men, the vast majority of them have come to Canada with the right spirit—a real determination to "make good" and achieve not merely a temporary but a permanent success in this country. They came wholly unprepared in the work they are to undertake. Instead of working eight hours a day, they will be required to work from early dawn till dark, but the spirit of the men was expressed by one of them on the eve of sailing when he said that eighteen hours a work in the open fields and fresh air of the prairie would be no worse than eight hours under ground in a coal mine.

Enroute over the ocean, the first group of miners wireless back to the British Government that they were determined to succeed, and at the port of landing in Canada, and again at Winnipeg, Regina, Moose Jaw, and other points of distribution, men after man expressed the same view, namely, that they were anxious to make a success in Canada and were hopeful of securing work after the harvest and becoming permanent citizens of the Dominion.

These men by the act of their coming to Canada as harvest hands have shown that they prefer work, even hard unaccustomed toil, to living in idleness on the "dole" in Britain. Each and every one of them is to pass a rigorous physical examination before being allowed to sail. They are, therefore, the pick of the unemployed miners, and animated by a desire to "make good" they should succeed if given a fair chance, and a helping hand and encouragement.

That chance, assistance and encouragement should be forthcoming in large measure from the Canadian people as a whole and, in particular, from the individual farmers who employ them. It will be necessary to give these men how their work should be done and how to do it. This will require tact and patience. Too much must not be expected of them. And the man who makes an honest effort, to learn, who shows a real determination to work and render service to his employer, is deserving of every encouragement.

Such encouragement cannot be better shown than by a kindly, sympathetic attitude and a personal interest in the miner's welfare, and, in all cases where it is possible to do so, by the offer of a job for the winter. The knowledge that, if he shows a disposition to make good, he will be provided with work for the winter, and thus given his opportunity to become a permanent settler in Canada, will provide the greatest possible incentive to a man who is desirous of achieving that goal. And it is settlers of this British type of which Canada stands in need.

If both parties to this unique experiment drive to make it a success there is no reason why it should not succeed, and if it does prove successful—it is success being judged by the results of the movement as a whole rather than by individual cases—then it will, in all probability, prove the beginning of a new and worthy immigration from the congested groups of the unemployed in the British Isles to the open spaces of Canada, where through their labor, such people will be an important factor in bringing large tracts of vacant lands under cultivation, and in providing the necessary man-power to develop many of the as yet untouched natural resources of the Dominion, thus making comfortable homes for themselves and adding immeasurably to the productive capacity, wealth and prosperity of Canada, and incidentally to the Empire as a whole.

Conference Between Lord Lovat and Ottawa Authorities Brings Results

When the Lord Lovat, head of the Empire Settlement Board, and federal immigration leaders concluded at Ottawa, an official statement was issued, saying "It is confidently expected that the result of these negotiations will be a steady increase in the flow of suitable British migrants to Canada."

The conference discussed various matters arising out of the immigration to and settlement in the Dominion, with particular reference to the measures to be adopted both in Canada and in Great Britain to give effect to the recommendations of the select standing committee of the House of Commons on agriculture and colonization. All these recommendations and other proposals made by Lord Lovat have been fully and frankly discussed, and the mutual appreciation of the difficulties on both sides and in every case a satisfactory understanding has been arrived at, the statement said.

Women Must Braid Hair and Remove Headpieces From Faces

The municipal board of public safety has decreed that Peking women under 30 years of age must braid their hair or pay a fine of 50 cents.

Yu-Pu, military governor of Chihai under the former regime, who repudiated hair braiding, threatening to punish even his own consorts for disobeying this order.

The mayor, Ho Chi-Kung, is determined to eliminate the old-fashioned habits still adhered to by some of the Peking people. #### Planting Trees On Highway

One of the Most Beautiful Driveways In Western Canada Planned By Mr. Pat Burns

The main south highway from the Calgary city limits south to Minnopolis, some ten miles, will be transformed into one of the most beautiful drives in Western Canada within the next two years as a result of the decision made by Patrick Burns, well known pioneer citizen and rancher, to plant trees on his land, which skirts both sides of the highway clear through to Minnopolis. Work of preparing the land for the tree planting is already under way, and the first trees will be planted next spring. The section between Calgary and Minnopolis will be completed next summer, and it is possible that Mr. Burns will extend his activities further south the following year, so he has a considerable amount of land south of Minnopolis. Russian planters will be used with maples scattered here and there.

Jack was lying on the couch while Eva sat beside him, the light so shaded that he could not see her face. His sat motionless through it all. He told of his return from the north and finding her gone; of his suspicions, continued, as he thought, by seeing her in Edmonton; of his sudden resolve to act; and lastly of his meeting with Arthur Warner. "I don't know," he concluded, "what is the explanation of the Winnipeg affair, but I know Helmi is innocent. She was sent to that place by someone and is shielding that person. Look at her letters, Eva—read them, and to think I doubted her and left her alone when she needed me!"

Eva took the letters in her cold hands, but she could not read a word. "I got the news of my baby from another man," said Jack bravely, "and it was his money Helmi got instead of mine to help her. Helmi had to beg for work and suffer itself. See what she says there—'No one wanted a girl with a baby! Wasn't it damnable, Eva? I rage when I think of it. I blame myself—I shouldn't have believed anything. I know how sweet and good and true she was—I knew! But the person that sent her for the dope and then sold out is the person who should be shot, and I'll sit it to the bottom when I go back. Poor Helmi, bearing it all because she was too honorable, and deep emotion. Jack did not notice that his sister had not spoken, but sat with bowed head, like a broken lily."

It was one of the soft nights when the blossoms are just beginning to scent the breeze, when there are those interminable evenings and whistlings of spring. Even if nations are at war and planning the destruction of each other, trees rest and blossoms open. The streets seemed quiet to Jack; but for the heavy rumbling of the buses no one appeared to be around.

Suddenly the silence was broken by a weird, spitting noise as of giant fire-crackers: a sound of deadly import to the people of England, for it gave warning of the approach of enemy air craft.

"It's an air raid," Eva answered without stirring. "They run to the tube stations; but I never go—I fear sister here—I have a dread of being smothered in those terrible places. I've been through three air raids already. So I am not afraid."

Eva spoke with a composure which was not assumed; anything was better than the maddening remorse that had swept over her as Jack told his story.

Jack went to the window and looked down into the street. Through the open glass he saw the dust of the enemy's Zeppelins, malvolent, horrible, like the buzzing of some poison-ous fly. Then came the continuous commencing of the anti-aircraft guns, like wild yells of battle. The searchlights combed the sky with their ghostly fingers, and people came tearing out of their houses and racing through the dark streets.

Jack had often wondered how people would not get during an air raid. He felt for fear, for himself, it didn't occur to him that he could be in a deep sorrow in his heart. He could not reproach her—there was no need, but his own heart was beating with the sorrow of it all. Sign and sorrow—the age-old partnership—sin and sorrow. For one man sin came into the world and died; the other, a woman who sins is not always the one who suffers.

Jack had called Keith, his former partner, from Paris to send to London one thousand dollars. But when he reached London he found that no reply had come. The Keith of work, could not be found. He had left the city over a year ago, and his creditors had not been able to trace him.

Jack sat on one of the wooden benches in the cable office in London and tried to find a quieting influence, of what this meant to him. He wondered at his own calmness in the face of such a smothering cloud of confusion and the Schmidt, with all the comfort and luxury it would bring him had been much in his thoughts. He had a queer feeling of imprisonment. He had planned many generous surprises for his companion, too. And now it was like a dark night, with no light.

— He had been warning his hands at a painted fire.

Well, there was about two hundred dollars coming to him from the War Office, and he would be given transportation home. Prisoners who had escaped through a neutral country were not allowed to go back into the army.

When the Olympic sailed out of the harbor at Liverpool into the muddy waters of the Mersey, Jack stood on the deck looking back at the receding shores of England. Behind him lay bitter thoughts and such disquiet; the utility of war; the hideous wastage of young life; the horrible suffering and slaughter; and Eva, his only relative! He clanked with better memories as he thought of it all. Then there came to him, beating up through all this, like a fountain of sweet water in the sea, the memory of Arthur Warner and his unspeakable love, and of Helmi, with her clear, sweet soul and her honorable silence.

Jack stayed in London until Eva was out of danger. She would re-er, the white-uniformed doctor at Or's told him, but of course she would be badly scared.

Behind her handbags, Eva smiled feebly. "It's all right Jack," she said, winking, holding his hand; "better even than I have been before. I'm pleased. Maybe God is giving me a few more years to atone for what I have done. I have been a poor sport, Jack—I needed a wash-out of some kind."

I am not complaining. Life is queer, Jack, isn't it? I wanted to show Humphrey I wasn't as selfish and shallow as he thought. He told me in the last quarrel we had, and the only one that I would never be an old woman! I would only be a stale novelty. I was determined to show him I had some thought of doing things for other people, so I came here and got into the V.A.D. work. What I really wanted to do was to drive an ambulance in France, but I was afraid, not of death, but of disfigurement. I hate ugliness so—far more than sin.

"I was my hatred of ugliness, not of sin," Eva continued, "which cured me of the drug habit, but I had learned to take dope just because it gave me a thrill—it saved me from dullness; but I was an addict—one of the doctor's patients—a woman something like me, but horrible to look at—pasty-faced, dead-eyed, mouth agape—and I could see no other way out like that. So Jack, I never touch it again."

Eva paused for a long time. "But now, with a blue sea in my cheek and my nose broken I will not be afraid. I will go to France. Maybe I can take the place of some other and happier woman, and when the shell comes marked for her, it will take me instead. And Jack," she continued, "you will tell Helmi that I sent this and ask her to think kindly of me as she can. She loved me once with all a young girl's adoration."

Jack listened to her tenderly with a deep sorrow in his heart. He could not reproach her—there was no need, but his own heart was beating with the sorrow of it all. Sign and sorrow—the age-old partnership—sin and sorrow. For one man sin came into the world and died; the other, a woman who sins is not always the one who suffers.

Germany's Friendship For England

Germany's rediscovered friendship for England is reflected in a small volume, just published, "London, Love of a Girl," by Wolf Zuckler, a young German, publisher. The new book compares favorably with many, a bulky time, in which German travelers are to enlighten their countrymen on matters beyond the channel.

This latest contribution to German post-war literature on England shows the extent to which the "hymn-of-chaos" psychology has been unlearned. For Zuckler's volume is not merely a chronicle of objective impressions of London and England; it is the dihymanic prose of an impressionable man of letters and English.

Unlike many of his European contemporaries, Zuckler records his impressions of England and London without any attempt to analyze them by Continental standards. Few foreigners have ever presented a more enthusiastic account of the English capital.

Part of The British Chemicals Are Favorably Impressed With Canada

Trinites to Canada marked a dinner at Montreal featured to the part of British chemists on route to the United States where the annual convention of the British Institute of Chemical Engineers will be held this year. Nearly 200 were present.

Sir Alexander Gibb, president of the British Institution of Chemical Engineers, declared that "our visit since arrival on Saturday at Quebec have impressed upon us perhaps more greatly than we knew the extraordinary way in which Canada is going forward. It makes one realize that Canada is cutting out a course for herself an independent country, and a course that looks well for the future not only of Canada but of the British Empire."

Remarkable Migration Of Game

Interesting Sight, As Witnessed By Geographic Society Expedition

A remarkable migration of game in the Tanganyika territory is reported by Carvel Wells, of the Geographic Society expedition, the reports being made from the party's first headquarters in the Tanganyika territory, East Africa, where they arrived on July 23.

Martin Johnson, noted animal photographer, who is in the same district with Wells, estimated that there are about 10,000,000 deer of game migrating across the country in a solid mass ten miles wide and 30 miles long at one spot.

Zebras were stated to be leading the way in a mass ten miles wide and five miles deep, followed by miles of giraffes and other animals.

The explorer's camp at the time reported was situated in longitude 35 east and about two degrees south of the equator. Wells reported that notwithstanding this equatorial location the air was so cold he had to sleep in a sleeping bag and wear a thick coat and overcoat, while the animals have been very dry of a hot-water bottle at night.

The party had several exciting experiences with animals en route, particularly with a group of eight lions which investigated the car in which Wells was riding, coming to within fifteen yards of it and finally slinking away.

GUARD BABY'S HEALTH IN THE SUMMER

The summer months are the most dangerous to children. The commonest of these ailments, which often a little one is beyond the mother's power to handle, are cholera infantum, colic, diarrhoea, and fever. The mother must be on her guard to prevent these troubles, or if they do occur, she must be on her guard to discover the secrets of sleep. Women are less restless than men as a rule, he finds, and spend more time in bed. Persons engaged in mental activity during the day, sleep less than persons engaged in work that only feebly stimulates.

THE CANINES
You have referred to your dog Beyer as a canine—that is what he is. This tooth, then, that is the first in the lower jaw, is called the canine, from being extra well-developed. It is the dog and other carnivorous animals.

It is the most primitive type of tooth and is known also as the "eye tooth," this last being a popular designation. Being so important, you have its place in the temporary teeth. It is the permanent successors during the process of shedding the temporary teeth.

It may be that it remained in place unduly long, but for infrequent use in the upper jaw, the permanent canine, though developing, does not erupt, in which case the temporary canine should be retained as long as it remains firm and sound, depending on the advice and responsibility of your dentist.

Now notice this point: Overlying the root of the upper canine, is an elevation, the "canine eminence," which serves to keep the tissue at the angle of the mouth well in place. This eminence disappears, with the result of falling in of this tissue, giving you prematurely the appearance of age.

For if you would keep your youthful appearance, beware, see to it that your "eye-tooth" stays sound, and free from the clutches of your dentist's forceps.

When Your Children Cry for It

Baby has little upsets at times. All your care cannot prevent them. But any baby who cannot get away. And it's always ready for the cruelest of all—constipation, or diarrhea, effective, too, for older children. Tens of millions bottles were bought last year.

Doctor Says Sleep Becomes a Vicious Habit When Curia To Excess

Sleep becomes a vicious habit when carried to excess, says Dr. J. M. Johnson, "sleep expert" at the University of Pittsburgh. Most people, Johnson believes, get sufficient rest in the course of six and a half to nine hours to carry them through the day and make their work enjoyable.

Such vicious sleep, he says, interferes with more interesting activities. Dr. Johnson studied 90 persons of both sexes ranging in age from 16 to 63 years in an attempt to discover the secrets of sleep. Women are less restless than men as a rule, he finds, and spend more time in bed. Persons engaged in mental activity during the day, sleep less than persons engaged in work that only feebly stimulates.
